Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1,3-20 are allowed.

Reason for Allowance

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The closest prior art of record is "Quicken 6-in-1" by Stephen O'Brien.

O'Brien discloses generating reports for calculating various elements, such as net worth, cash flow and money budget; these reports can be generated by selecting an account type (e.g. Checking's, Saving's) for any given period. Once a report is established, the user can create financial snapshots for displaying expense comparison, monthly income and expense, net worth, dining budget etc. However, O'Brien taken either individually or in combination with other prior art of record fails to teach or suggest electronically determining the applicability of a first, second, and third subroutine to gathered data, wherein the gathered data is form at least one field in at least two different financial statements, and if applicable, electronically applying the first, second, and third subroutine. In which, the first subroutine is a volume variance subroutine, a mix variance subroutine, a net revenue change variance subroutine, a cost change variance subroutine, an exchange variance subroutine or a one-time subroutine as recited in independent claim 1. Also, electronically determining the applicability of a volume variance subroutine to the gathered data and if applicable electronically applying the volume variance subroutine against the gathered data resulting in volume variance data as recited in independent claim 12.
